Verbatim Growth Monthly Market Commentary - February 2023

After a strong start to the year, global equities had a weaker month in February, overall declining 1.2% for sterling investors, on the back of persistent inflation, rising bond yield levels and worries around potential further monetary tightening from central banks.

Regionally, UK large-cap equities rose 1.8%, driven by the energy sector and by positive earnings news from major banks in the financial sector. US equities declined 0.8% but the US technology sector climbed 0.7% for the month. While the labour market remained strong with unemployment continuing to be at low levels, we have seen some marginal disinflation but yet investors remain focused on the Federal Reserve's stance, assessing whether the rises in interest rates are set to remain for longer.

European equities had a positive month, rising 0.8%. Gas prices eased for the region as traders reported growing confidence that European countries will avoid shortages this winter and next, helped by a milder winter and other factors, but worries around the European Central Bank's pace of monetary policy tightening remained. This was mainly offset by strong retail sales. In other regions, Emerging Markets declined 4.9% on the back of some geopolitical tensions between China and the US. However, positive sentiment around the reopening of the Chinese economy and the boost in global demand continued while the People's Bank of China left rates unchanged. Japanese equities also marked negative returns, down 2.2%. In commodities, oil prices ended the month down 0.7%.
