Verbatim Multi-Index Monthly Market Commentary - December 2024

Global equities experienced a reversal from their exceptional November, falling 0.9% in sterling terms for December. This was aggravated by negative investor sentiment from the Fed's weaker outlook for further interest rate cuts in 2025. This sent bond yields higher, resulting in bond prices falling, with the global aggregate bond market falling by 0.8%.

The hawkish tone from the Fed was softened by US large-cap technology stocks' strong performance compared to broader US equities, returning 2.0%. Elsewhere, Japanese equities returned 1.1%, in sterling terms, on the helped by the Bank of Japan's stimulus plans and revised positive economic growth figures. Chinese equities recovered from its November sell-off, rising by 3.6% in sterling terms, as China experienced manufacturing growth and revealed plans to implement more proactive fiscal and monetary policy in 2025. European equities continued to battle with weaker manufacturing data and political instability, falling by 0.9% in sterling terms. UK equities faced persistent challenges from the Bank of England, falling 1.3%, who decided to hold interest rates. This is despite speculation that a cut was on the horizon, with inflation ticking upwards. Commodities outperformed both equity and bond markets, with the broader commodity index returning 4.8% in December. This was largely supported by the performance of brent crude oil, returning 5.4%, driven by expectations of further stimulus measures from China and increased demand amid cold weather in Europe. As for disappointments, Global Real Estate fell 6.0% in December, exacerbated by economic uncertainty and the continued impact of elevated interest rates.
